

NEW UNIVERSITY LIBRARY AT CAMPUS NERIMANOV

Khazar University Library & Information Center needs new premises to continue to develop modern library operations and create a creative, physical meeting place for academia and society.

The new library building brings together the current Humanities books, such as the Arts, Music and Drama under the same roof and will be located where the Khazar University new building is located today.

A new university library is part of the Collection for Art, Culture and the Humanities that the Khazar University is developing in the Nerimanov area in the coming years.

In 2023, a new investigation was started to determine the possibility of meeting the needs of the University Library at the Khazar University in existing buildings and thus reducing new construction.

The building of the University Library, located at one of the remarkable places of the city. Campus has to be a driving force within the University and contribute to its regional radiance. It is a structuring facility for all the buildings that constitute the Khazar University Campus: its vocation is to gather books and readers in a unique place dedicated to knowledge, an open and generous place within the University. It is about providing a cultural and documentary service of quality and also materialise the image of the regional community, therefore one of the main issues is to give to the building of the University Library a physical, social and symbolic identity that will impact the one of the neighbourhood and of the city.

FUNCTIONAL ORGANISATION

The library is considered as an open space, with reception spaces, diverse reading and research spaces and the possibility of lending books. It is also a facility that combines traditional documentation and modern technologies.

ACCESS AND PRESERVATION SAFEGUARDS

Materials stored in the collections facility are accessible via digital and physical delivery, with pick up available at any of our campus libraries. An on-site reading room provides open access to materials that are in library use only.

The facility also offers the same industry-standard environmental, security, and fire-suppression safeguards currently provided in the Main Khazar University Library.

Having a new facility is critical for us to ensure that we properly preserve the University's most valued and unique assets, while having space to plan for the future. We would like to add that the facility will allow the Khazar University continue to be one of the top academic libraries for lending and sharing books and other materials.
