

14.03.2024: xəbər

Adjunct Professor Publishes Dictionary of Little-Known Artificial Language

Adjunct Professor Alan Libert of the Department of English Language and Literature has compiled a dictionary of the poorly-known artificial language Oz, which was published by Lincom Europa (Munich) in February. Despite its name, Oz was a serious project designed by Charles Elam Milton to show the advantages of an a priori (built from scratch) auxiliary language. Milton's 1932 book on Oz lacks a dictionary and is unclear on many points; Libert's dictionary will help us better understand this unusual language. More information is available at:

<https://www.isbn.de/buch/9783969391938/a-dictionary-of-the-artificial-language-oz>

A Dictionary of the Artificial Language Oz

Alan Libert

p t k f s b d g v z c j n N l r w y h
L 7 2 d a l l l d d d C e l i l f f f
A E I Q O U c i a m u a c i
~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~