

Public Access to Khazar University Libraries

Khazar University and its campuses offer public access passes if you visit the university library in order to obtain materials. There are often limits (e.g. you can only use the computer to access journals for one hour), and the details of what you can get access to vary widely among schools.

University libraries play a crucial role in guiding students through the research process, equipping them with the skills and knowledge needed to discover and use information effectively.

There is a wide range of freely available information sources, including ebooks, full-text journals, images, reports, statistics and source material.

Publicly available

There is a wide range of freely available information sources, including ebooks, full-text journals, images, reports, statistics and source material.

The Khazar University libraries also provides freely available materials for skills development, including

- Being Digital: a collection of short, easy to follow activities, which cover the skills we all need to be effective online. Whether it's searching efficiently, critically evaluating information, communicating and sharing online, or selecting the right online tool for your needs, each activity should take no more than 10 minutes to complete.
- Skills for Study: resources and activities providing tips about effective study skills in areas such as assignments, exams and thinking, reading and taking notes and a broad range of related areas.
- Learning Online : provides free online learning material taken from Libraries modules in different subject areas which includes "Finding Information" in your chosen subject. This service also contains library related material on information skills and lists freely available resources.

Members of the public are welcome to visit or join our campus-based libraries.